Evidence that Attorney General Stone was planning sweeping changes in administrative personnel of the prison came today with the announcement that he had accepted the resignation of A. E. Sartain, the warden. A special representative of the department of justice is in charge and Assistant Attorney General Donovan left tonight for Atlanta to aid in presentation of secret evidence to the grand jury.

In May, 1923, at the Porter Springs hotel, in Lumpkin county. Judge Sibley, however, reduced the fine in one of the cases from $600, or six months in jail, to $500, or six months. The two men originally were sentenced several months ago to pay aggregate fines of $700 each or spend eight months in jail on charges of interfering with federal prohibition agents in the discharge of their duty, and violating that section of the law which relates to conspiracy to interfere with federal officers in the discharge of their duty.

The case was the outgrowth of a section of the law which relates to conspiracy to interfere with federal officers in the discharge of their duty.

Continue Line Today.

The prosecution will continue this line of argument Tuesday, when it will introduce testimony to support the claim that McCoy had stolen thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry and antiques from Mrs. Mors. The tactics fit into the state's assertion that when McCoy was deprived of this source of income he went into a murderous rage and killed the woman for whom he had sworn undying love.

Several witnesses appeared Monday to give further details concerning McCoy's rampage in the antique shop of Mors on the morning after Mrs. Mors was killed.

ted Monday to Governor Walker by Sam J. Slate, state auditor.

Auditor Slate's report shows that the salary of Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the state college of agriculture, a branch of the university proper, totals $8,700 a year.

This feature of the report is of peculiar interest at this time, in view of a special meeting of trustees of the college of agriculture to be held in Athens today to discuss the matter of Dr. Soule's salary. In a recent report on this institution, the auditor pointed out that there is a recent report on this institution, the auditor pointed out that there is a clause in the Georgia law which says that the president's total salary is not to exceed $5,000 a year. It was shown that Dr. Soule receives $5,000 from the college of agriculture and an additional $3,000 from the federal government. The report on the university, filed Monday, shows that he also receives $500 a year as dean of the school of mechanical arts and $200 annually as an instructor in the summer school of that institution, making a total of $8,700 in all. Auditor Slate also states:

"I think to some extent we have lost sight of the steady growth of the university. Chancellor Barrow's administration, while not spectacular, has been of great service to the state, both in adding to the university plant and increasing the attendance and no man can estimate the influence of the chancellor upon the student body, and I have never seen a man so universally loved by a student body over which he presided."

Declaring that salaries, compared with those in other states, are not excessive and, in fact, average lower for equal length of service, Auditor excessive and, in fact, average lower for equal length of service, Auditor Slate says that he can see no place in the university's administration where any substantial economy could be practiced. Latex-treated Web-Cord Tires

OT excepting the advent of Balloon Tires, the most outstanding development in tire construction in outstanding development in tire construction in recent years has been the use of Latex and the development of the Latex-process of building cord tires.

This process, developed, patented and owned by the makers of Royal Cords, is used to produce Latex-treated Web-Cord. Web-Cord is very strong and very flexible. Each individual cord is saturated, surrounded and bound to its neighbor by Latex. This does away with cross-tie threads and gives a smoother, stronger, more flexible fabric and one that has greater power to resist internal friction.

One of the reasons why U.S.

Royal Cord Balloon Tires give such outstanding performance is because they are built of this strong flexible material.

But we have not confined its advantages to Balloon Tires.

U.S. Royal Cords, U.S. Royal Cord Balloon Tires, U.S. Royal Cord Balloon-Type Tires, are all built of Latex-treated Web-Cord.

Whatever type of tire your requirements call for, you can secure the advantages of Web-Cord construction by buying U.S. Royal Cords.

After arguing at length or several other subjects, the prep moguls decided to hold the annual basketball tournament of the association at Griffin, beginning, Wednesday, February 18 and running through Saturday, the 21st.

The decision was reached after Coach R. H. Taliaferro, of the Griffin High school, had invited the tourney to Griffin on behalf of three civic organizations and the local athletic association, guaranteeing expenses of every team entered and offering a loving cup to teams finishing first, second and third. The tourney was held there last year and declared successful teams to play a post-season game for the championship.

Beligibility Discussed.

The question of eligibility was argued at length during which time several motions were introduced to take care of the situation. The one andopted requires each school to file the name, age, last school attended and cate of matriculation of cach player to be used by that school, with the secretary of the association before a contest is held with a team belonging to the G. Today's sessions began before noon and continued throughout the day and into tonight before the league magnates called it a day. Announcement was made when the meeting ended that all of the problems confronting the league heads had been discussed but that no decision had been reached. The fixing of a date for the opening and closing of the 1925 championship season also was passed until tomorrow. A. J. Heinemann, president of the New Orleans club; Strang Nicklin, of Chattanoga, and R. G. Allen, of Little Rock, were named as a committee of three to draft a tentative schedule for next season to be presented to the spring meeting in Memphis.

Irwin M. Howe, of Chicago, was reappointed league statistician.

Today's sessions extended over a period of eight hours, were executive and no announcement was made as to details of the discussion.

FORWARD PASS RECEIVES JOLT

Amherst, Mass., December 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Declaring that the forward pass with its modern variations, is an "evil" to the game and slowly relegating football into outdoor basketball, Harold M. ("Kid") Gore, gridiron coach at Massachusetts Agricultural college, suggests that a touchdown resulting from a forward pass score only three points the same as a field goal, instead of six as now provided. He also suggests that as a fifther remedy the elimination of any run after a pass is received, this allowing only the ground actoally gained by the pass.

The Aggie coach makes the point score suggestion after having coached the best team the Massachusetts Aggies has had in 20 years, and which did not use the forward pass to any extent.

Lexington, Va., December 15.—Games with Pitt, Princeton, West Virginia and six Southern Conference elevens will be played by the 1925 Generals, according to Washington and Lee's football schedule for next fall. The program is undoubtedly the most ambitious ever mapped out by any southern eleven, and the most difficult ever attempted by W. & L. One date, October 3, is still unfilled. The season will be opened against the Pitt Panthers, the battle to be staged in Pitt's new stadium if it is completed by September 26. If not, the game will probably be moved either to Richmond or Charleston, W. Va. The intersectional straggle will create additional interest because James DeHart, reelected head coach for 1925, is a former Pitt star, received the delevent of the prince o

The market became steadier soon after the opening and rallied somewhat on an estimate by a private authority of 12.670,000 bales ginned prior to December 15, which meant ginnings for the last period of only 455,000 bales. This was considered bullish and the market bulged as a result. While those bearishly inclined resisted the advance, shorts eventually started to cover rather freely when it was reported that there was an urgent demand for spots in southern markets.

During the atternoon the advancing tendency of prices gathered decided momentum notwithstanding the denial of the authenticity of the early estimate of ginnings by a private authority. Spot advices, however, were even more bullish than in the forenoon, and the statistics showed a marked falling off in the crop movement. It was also realized that American cotton was cheap in comparison with Egyptian and other kinds. Trading became active and prices advanced, reaching the highest of the day right at the end with January at 23.84, March at 23.90, and May at 24.19, or 49 to 55 points above the carly lows. The close was at the top showing net gains for the day of 35 to 40 points.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, December 15.—The market continues to give evidence of having definitely turned for the better. Confidence appears to be gradually returning and there is more disposition to buy on the part of interests who have been awaiting a turn in the tide, while speculative shorts are gradually reducing their lines. The increased firmness during the afternoon was attributable to reports of increasing mill activity and the continued bullish character of southern spot advices. The trade interests have continued buyers and there has been some improvement in the outside demand. The national gitners' estimate of 12,670,000 bales ginned to December 12 was construed as bullish, and in some quarters it was claimed these figures indicated that the total ginnings would probably not exceed the government's crop estimate of 13,153,000 bales. While we do not anticipate any material advance in the near future, we believe that we have seen the worst and that cotton is a purchase on any good setback.

Cotton Letters.

The early buige was promoted by reports that private returns indicated a ginning of 12,670,000 bales to December 13, which was rather under local expectations. The effects of the decline in Egyptian cotton were offset to some extent by reports that the market in India was advancing because of wet weather. Exporters were reported to be buying spot cotton in the southwest with holders firm and the basis advancing. Exports today were 30,479 bales, making 3,718,143 so far this season. New York, December 15.—The market continued to show strength on a somewhat reduced scale of activity in the early afternoon. The last hour brought profit taking in the general list and a series of sensational moves in individual stocks. Cast Iron Pipe soared to 150, up 13½; Worthing ton Pump to 71, up 13½, and Alla Chalmers to 70, up 2½. The action of Cast Iron Pipe and Worthington Pump indicated the same market sponsorship. There were other features of a somewhat less sensational nature. Macy advanced to 70 on a statement that the company's Christmas trade was the greatest in the history of the company. The fact that pools are willing to try these sensational moves in stocks indicates that they believe the market is still in a very strong position. Total sales, 1.734,700.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, December 15.—Cables this morning were lower than due, owing to a decline in the price of Egyptian futures in Liverpool. Our market receded a little at the opening but subsequently recovered and advanced on builts reports from southern imarkets during the early afternoon. It was reported that a well-known English firm had estimated the consumption of American cotton this year as 10 per cent to 15 per cent above that of last season and this had a tendency to strengthen prices as the higher of the two figures would bring the consumption within striking distance of 13.000,000 bales. Southern advices were to the effect that the basis was higher with cotton hard to buy and considerable December commitments to be filled. The result was a steady market through the day although speculative sentiment is still bearish.

New York, December 15.—With the stock market strong, active and broad and with a number of important issues, such as U. S. Steel common, Jersey Central, General Electric and Atchison, making new 1924 highs, and in many cases the highest for several years, many Wall street people who have been watching the market from the side lines and expecting the reaction which was under way last week to run fur-ther, are now convinced that still higher prices will be witnessed before the end of this year. On all sides here in the financial district the opinion is being expressed that the existing bull market for stocks is the healthiest that has been witnessed in many a long year.

Rails were strong on the rapidly increasing list of larger railway dividends. Missouri, Kansas and Texas directors declared an initial dividend on the preferred stock lite today at the annual rate of 5 per cent. One convincing feature of the stock market has been the way shares selling ex-dividend have rapidly made up the dividend. For example, before noon today dividend payments had been made up by Philips Petroleum and Pacific Oil opening ex-dividend this morning. This was true of steel common the other day and it has been true of many leading

Southern Gas and Power Cor-poration, One of Our Smaller Gas Holding Companies, Gradually Is Extending Its Activities in

A great deal has been said about the formation of power and light holding companies in recent years. Southern Gas and Power Corpora-tion, which was formed something like a year ago, is the product of utility interests that saw possibilities in the creation of holding com-

Southern Gas and Power Corporation was not so very large at the time of its formation and is not large now, but it is growing in influence The average investor probably would not recognize many of the subsidiary companies even if a list were presented to him. How-ever, the small operating subsidiaries are located in a territory that is developing rapidly. The indication is for continued growth, which is, of course, the important thing, Altogether the corporation through its subsidiaries will, on completion of new financing now under way, furnish artificial or natural gas without competition to more than thirty communities, located primarily without competition to more than thirty communities, located primarily in Georgia, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina. The most important operating subsidiary, for those who want that detail, is the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company. The one next in importance is The Gas Light Company of Augusta.

Advantages of the Holding Company.

Unification of several small gas companies such as is found in the Southern Gas and Power system rests on the same general principles that explain power and light groupings. Affiliation of small gas comtained to stocks of wheat and rye were firm, 3-8 to 1 cent higher, May 1.68 1-4 to 1.68 3-8 and July 1.48 1-4 to 1.68 3-8. Rye finished 1 1-4 to 1.68 3-8. Closing prices for wheat large volume of profit taking toward the close. Net gains in the active issues ranged from 1 to 13 1-2 points.

4 1-4 cents up, corn unchanged to 3-8 off lecting the easing of the strain which preparations for today belong the close. In addition to the fact that domestic stocks of wheat and rye were firm, 3-8 to 1 cent higher, May 1.68 1-4 to 1.68 3-8 and July 1.48 1-4 to 1.68 1 that explain power and light groupings. Affiliation of small gas companies with a larger holding company makes possible a degree of expert management that would not be practical in the case of an individual subsidiary. Economies of operation are possible in a group that are im-sources for handling such large total business have so developed in recent years that from all outward appear-ance today was no different from any possible where each company works independently.

From the standpoint of the investor, too, there is something to be ance today was no different from any other day recently except that call money rates were easier. The renewal rate on call loans on the stock exchange floor was 3 1-2 per cent with a lower rate obtainable on the outside market against last week's high rate of 4 per cent. Bankers here predicted last week that call money would be easier with the December 15 requirements out of the way. Time money was a trifle firmer today. said for the gas holding company. Diversification in earnings is one of the chief factors in the arrangement. When earnings of one subsidiary are poor, those of another, experience shows, generally are good. Weakness in one division frequently is offset, where the industry is growing, by strength somewhere else.

Valuation Above Mortgage Debt. Messrs. Sanderson and Porter, who supervise the management and operation of the Southern Gas and Power Corporation properties, on June 30, 1923, gave the depreciated value of the system's assets as $6,754,000. That figure is old now, but nevertheless is twice the outstanding mortgage debt presently to be outstanding.

About a year ago, when the parent corporation first came into the market for funds, it was obliged to attach 7 per cent coupons to make its bonds attractive, $400,000 of first lien collateral trust 7s, series A, being offered. It now is offering $1,500,000 of 6 1-2 per cent bonds of 1949 under the same lien. That the corporation is offering bonds at 99 1-2, or on a 6.55 per cent yield basis, is explained by several things: (1) The corporation is a holding company; (2) it is relatively new in the field and (3) therefore is unable to cite a long earnings record. Earnings of the subsidiary companies have been improving for period of years, however, and net earnings at the present time show a comfortable margin above all fixed charges. (Copyright, 1924, for The Constitution.)

all states of the southeast will meet Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock with the Georgia public service com-mission at the Piedmont hotel to dis-cuss a hearing scheduled to come before the interstate commerce commis-sion at an early date in regard to freight rates on fertilizers in the southeast. Recently, the Georgia commission ordered a new schedule of fertilizer rates which was protested by carriers on the ground that the reduction in rates was unjust. The case was rates was unjust. The case was carried to the federal court where a hearing before a special tribunal, consisting of Judge Samuel H. Sibley, Judge Alex C. King and Judge Henry D. Clayton was pending. This sait was withdrawn on Monday, however, when the commission withdrew its order calling for the reduction in rates.

It is understood now that an entire revision of fertilizer rates throughout the southeast will probably be ordered by the interstate commerce commission, and it is in order to prepare for the hearing before that body that the southeastern commis-sioners are meeting in Atlanta today.

similar hearings have been held in New Orleans, Asheville, N. C., Cin-cinnati, New York and Washington.

The revision in class rates proposed by the I. C. C. affects rates in the southeast and also rates between this try. The carriers have protested, claiming that it would involve a serious reduction in their revenue and, on Monday, submitted companiers. between actual revenue in April last, and the revenue which would have accrued if the proposed new rates had been in effect, claiming that the loss which would have resulted would have amounted to approximately 7 1-2 per cent.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA TELLS OF ITS PLANS FOR THE NEW YEAR

The Central of Georgia Railway, in reviewing the year about to close, is pleased to report a substantial increase in its traffic. This satisfactory situation reflects the improved conditions in the territory we serve, the states of Georgia and Alabama. But better crops and better prices are not the only factors in heavier railway traffic, and not every railroad has enjoyed increased business.

The Central of Georgia believes that its greater volume of business is due in large part to the friendly feeling that the people of our territory have for the railroad. We appreciate, beyond expression, the many evidences of this friendship that we continually receive. We recognize the obligation under which this places us. We fully understand that it is our duty to reciprocate by the best service in our power.

In making grateful acknowledgment of our indebtedness to the public for its support and co-operation, we are glad to tell of our plans for 1925. Satisfactory service depends largely upon ample equipment. The Central of Georgia has been a liberal purchaser of new equipment, annually, for a number of years past. It has just placed orders for additional cars and motive power, as follows:

10 engines,

500 box cars,

100 flat cars,

10 cabooses,

6 steel passenger cars.

Plans are now being worked out for the installation of additional block signals, new rail, new ballasting, greater icing facilities, more yard, side and passing tracks, improved bridges, extension of long distance telephones, enlarged engine-house structures, and revision of grades. All of these things contribute to efficient and dependable operation.

Our present equipment—cars and engines—is in the best condition of our history. The same thing is true of all our other facilities. For the coming year our patrons will find the Central of Georgia strengthened in every way, capable of handling more business than ever before, and prepared to do its work promptly and well.

An indispensable factor of satisfactory service is an organization of employes eager to serve the public. The 10,000 members of the Central of Georgia "family" unite in pledging their best efforts to meet the increased demands that will be made upon them in 1925.

Each of them will carry into the New Year the true holiday spirit of mutual understanding, helpfulness, fair play and optimism. All of them join in the sincere wish for a Happy Christmas and in the confident expectation of a Prosperous New Year to the shippers and passengers who use the Central of Georgia Railway.

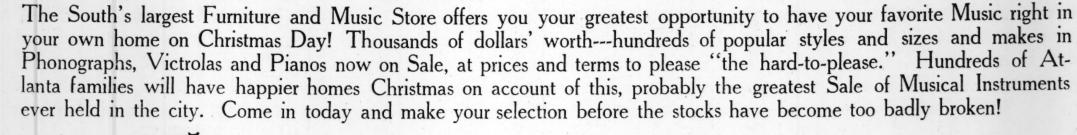

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

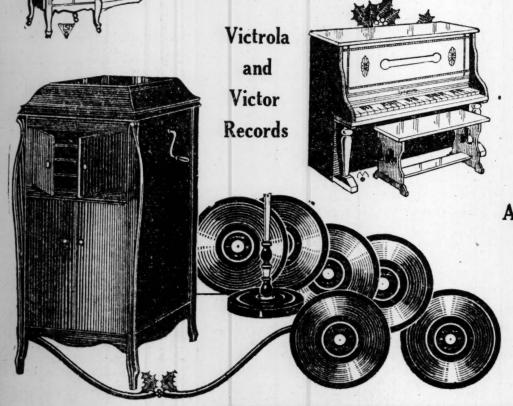

L. A. DOWNS, President, Central of Georgia Railway Company.

Savannah, Georgia, December 16, 1924.

Care of the Baby

The business of being a mother is one of the most intricate and echnical in the world.

You would not undertake to drive an automobile without any nstruction whatever and with no knowledge which would enable you to distinguish between the carburetor and the back seat, would you? Well, the proper care of your baby is a much more important ob to the baby, to you and to your family and community than the proper care of an automobile.

If you are a mother or a prospective mother, the bulletin our Washington Bureau has just prepared from authoritative government sources on CARE OF THE BABY is exactly what you want. It tells you how to care for yourself and your baby, from the beginning of pregnancy until your child has passed through the period of nursing. Everything is simply and carefully explained. This city-wide committee is being assisted Morgan-Stephens in the work of securing the names of children by the public school teachers and by the Junior Red Cross, the lists finally being gone over by the Family Welfare society, formerly the Associated Charities. The names of The Morgan-Stephen about one thousand children which are finally taken over by the Films Christmas committee are those of children who need not only toys, but in thousands of cases, the barest necessities of life.

"For weeks," says Mrs. Wing, chairman of the committee, "my heart has been aching as these lists have been coming in from the schools, and I have seen how pitifully few of the teachers have asked for toys because I have seen how pitifully few of the teachers have asked for toys, because I know that means the poor kiddies need other things so much more. Some of them even have to stay home from school, wrapped in quilts, because they have no clothes to wear."

The Better Films committee, organized primarily for the purpose of providing Atlanta children with the best obtainable in moving pictures, properly selected and supervised, is composed largely of parent-teacher representatives, and thus is closely affiliated with the schools. Next Saturday, all children attending the regular children's matinee are begged to bring Christmas gifts and place them in a large box donated by the Howard management, and all members of the parent-teacher associations are asked to encourage children to come. These gifts will be taken immediately to headquarters at 228 Peachtree street, just a few doors above the Masonic lodge, sorted out, then taken Saturday afternoon to the various schools selected for distribution.

CROSS-FIGURE $2,570 In Cash Prizes CASH PRIZES

The Atlanta Constitution's Cross-Figure Puzzle First Prize $1,000.00 in Cash

Nearly everyone is interested in cross-word puzzles, and working on them for fun and pastime. You can work on The Constitution's cross-figure puzzle for fun and protit.

There are 30 cash prizes, ranging from $1,000.00, first prize; $500.00, second prize; $400.00, third prize, etc., on down to $10.00. Some one is going to win these prizes. Why not you? $1,000.00 is worth an effort. No one has a better chance than you if you get busy and put forth the proper effort.

PROBLEM

Draw three separate chains of circles horizontally (left to right), and three perpendicu-larly (top to bottom) through the puzzle chart, locating them so as to obtain the greatest dif-ference you can between the sum total of the figures in the circles run ning porizontally and the sum total of those in the circles running perpen-

Allow at least two rows, or columns, of fig-ures to intervene betwo chains tween any running either horizon-tally or perpendicularly. You may allow as many more to intervene as you may find expedient.

The figures in the circles where the horizontal and perpendicular chains cross or come into con-tact are to be included in the total of either horizontal chains or the perpendicular chains, but not both.

There are nine points of contact, but no figure is to be included but once. If all figures in horizontal chains are included, then none of the contact or crossed fig-ures can be included in the perpendicular total, or vice versa.

You are not required to ol tain the greatest possible dif-ference that may exist be-tween the two totals in this cross-figure puzzle. The prizes will be awarded to those subcross-figure puzzle. The prizes will be awarded to those submitting, respectively, the greatest difference without regard to whether any of them is the greatest possible difference or not. The greatest difference or not. The greatest difference or some other prize. The accompanying illustration demonstrates what is meant by a "chain of circles."

When you have obtained the best solution you can find, insert iff the subscription and solution blank the sum total of the figures in the horizontal chains and directly under this the sum directly under this the sum fortal of the figures in the difference between the two. Attach this to the chart showing your six chains. This chart must accompany the blank in every instance. Otherwise it would not be possible to verify your work.

This illustrative chart contains the same number of figures as the cross figure puzzle. Note there are three horizontal and three perpendicular chains.

The total number of figures in the three former is seventy-five and in the latter fifty-one. Figures of contact (and there are nine of them) can be included but once. If elected to include all in horizontal chains, add the 75 figures in the horizontal chains, and from that total subtract the sum total of 42 figures in the perpendicular. If all the figures in the perpendicular chains are used, then from the sum total of the 64 figures in the horizontal, subtract the sum total of the 51 figures in the perpendicular chains. Use any rows of figures you wish constructing your horizontal chains and any columns you wish for your perpendicular chains, provided you allow at least two rows or columns of figures to intervene between any two parallel chains. Note there are two columns of figures intervening between the first two perpendicular chains in the illustration. The chains in the illustration were drawn in at random and without regard as to

3. A contestant may submit as many solutions as desired, provided payment for not less than three months' subscription is made with each solution. A solution once received and recorded cannot be changed or

4. Only one prize will be paid to any person, household, or group of persons working together. When in the judgment of the contest manager two or more solutions have been copied or worked in collusion, such solution may be rejected by him and the subscription money refunded.

5. The Constitution is to decide any question which may arise that is not covered by the published rules, and those entering this contest agree to abide by its decisions and accept them as final and conclusive.

6. All solutions must be mailed or delivered to The Constitution office on or before 9:00 P. M., Wednesday, January 21, 1925. In this contest mail bearing postmark of that date will be accepted. This contest extends from Sunday, December 7th, 1924, to and including Wednesday, January 21, 1925.

7. In case of ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are people tied before any prizes are awarded for less correct solutions; and another puzzle will be submitted to those tied. That is, if two or more people should tie on the best solution, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them, and they will be rewarded in the order of the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle.

8. In the event of ties for any prize, or prizes, a second puzzle of the same type as this cross-figure puzzle will be presented to those tied to solve. However, instead of single figures the numbers will consist of double figures such as 15, 24, 36, etc., and the problem will be to construct a chain of circles across the chart so as to obtain the greatest difference between the sum total of the even and the sum total of the odd figures within the circles. The contestant can have solution credited in his or her name, and paper sent to some other party. Two six months' subscriptions at $5.00 each are equal to one yearly subscription. One six-months' subscription at $5.00 and two three-months' subscriptions at $2.50 each, total remittance $10.00, are equal to one yearly or two six-months' subscriptions. Full qualification remittance should be sent with the solution, as additional payment cannot be made after the close of this contest, Jan. 21.

CLOSING DATE

The Cross-Figure Puzzle Contest will close at 9:00 P. M., Wednesday, January 21, 1925. The earlier you send in your solution the longer time you will have to go wer your figures and send in another solution if you find you can do better.

Additional charts may be secured at any time by calling at the address below or sending a self-addressed stamped envelope for mailing them. NO SOLUTION CAN BE CHANGED AFTER IT HAS BEEN ONCE REGISTERED.

IMPORTANT FACTS TO REMEMBER

While the amount you pay with the solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the amount you will receive, should you win one of the first nine prizes, as the value of these prizes is determined by what the winner rays. This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

Remember that the subscription and solution blank must not be separated from the cross-figure chart. The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning: prize. Accuracy is what counts. No more than one prize will be awarded to any one person. you desire extra puzzles free by mail, be sure to inclose Hotel Charlotte Russe, Santa Claus Land (By Courier Duck to The Constitution). December 15.—We slid down a pole, like the ones firemen use, from the rock candy cliff into the hotel lobby. The clerk was a jolly fat boy, who had a way of bouncing, instead of walking. He had a plum colored suit with ginger-snap buttons. As he bounced over the desk and came toward us, we saw that, instead of a pen, he had a pick. came toward us, we saw that, instead of a pen, he had a jack-knife over his ear, with the big blade open.

We said it after her and bounced ear, with the big blade open.

"Register, please," he said, handing me the jack-knife.

"Where?" I asked.

"Oh, just cut your initials somewhere." he answered, bouncing back over the desk again.

The hotel was decorated with French pastry designs. We saw a big panel of icing and began to eat our initials on it.

"You can make hearts and arrows, too, if you want to," said the clerk.

So we made beautiful designs.

Ishy-Koo said his was the best, but I think mine was.

We said it after her and bounced on our pogo-sticks, and on the second bounce we shot up and landed lightly as a feather on the balcony of floor seventy-five. I had scarcely settled myself in my room, which was done in peche Melba design, when a messer ger bounced in through the window. He gave me a beautiful frosted paper with a tiny sleigh bell on each corner. On this paper was written:

"Santa Claus will be pleased to receive Captain Elijah Squint and his companions in the royal palace at 10 o'clock Friday morning."

Palmyra Tree, on board the Yacht Rainbow, which is leaving the California coast for the South Seas, is startled to see a sinewy brown hand with a black lace mitt on it thrust through her porthole window. Palmyra is loved by two men, John Thurston and Van Buren Rutger. She is not certain which man she loves.

The girl determines to unearth the owner of that sinister hand, but tells no one her purposes. She discovers Ponape Burke, who confesses he is a smuggler of coolies and oplum. Burke permits her a glimpse of a savage brown man, Olive, hiding with him. She does the latter man a good turn.

Palmyra gradually convinces herself she is in love with Van Buren Rutger. Burke and Olive leave the yacht at Honolulu, and Palmyra's engagement to Van Buren is announced. The Yacht Rainbow is wrecked. The party lands on an uninhabited island faced with starvation. Burke appears on the Pigeon of Nosh, and promises to rescue them. Palmyra goes on board alone to investigate, and finds herself a prisoner. Burke sails away with her, telling her it was he who wrecked the Yacht Rainbow. Thurston and Van Buren start at dawn in vain pursuit. Burke outlines to Palmyra his plan of making her queen of Tanna island.

own the island; a line o' schooners carrying our copra t' Sydney; the kanakas a sweating their heart's blood out for us.

Ponape Burke stopped, perched himself on the rail, bellowed at a seaman to fetch water for his thirst. He had done his best. Complacency tinged his elemental visage. The girl's life, perforce, had been tame, circumscribed. But, absolutely, there was that in her nature which must kindle, flare up at this vision of unparalleled adventure, of unchallenged liberty, of unlimited power.

But the truth was, as he sat awaiting the first warming touch of that response, the girl was fighting an actual physical nausea. On the Rainbow she had delighted in his narrations, thinking he but manufactured the sort of world in which a bad little boy might yearn to swagger. She would there, as had been her habit with him, have greeted this scheme in a simulated enthusiasm. That, however, was when she thought it all harmless invention. How different now, in the horror of her new under-

Her aversion left no room for wonder that this creature, supposedly brute matter of fact, had turned out a visionary. Yet vile as his creation, it still had its origin in some perverted shred of that power to believe the seemingly unbelievable which has achieved the world's great

Nor did it occur to her he could be in any sense pathetic. But there was pathos in the breathing existence of a thing which never could have lived; a strain within her, that, once freed of the habits of an irking repression, would make them truly kindred. The girl's most nearly coherent response, in truth, was for the moment a sort of profound humiliation that any being in human form could so exult in a greed to be thus satiated in dread and misery. But before her abhorrence could find expression, Ponape Burke resumed. Even his infatuation had realized the need of a final tempting

"Wait, Palm," he cried eagerly. "Avast 'till y'hear the best." He dropped down on the deck before her, close.

"So far, it's been the sick; how much we could make a tamaloa pay for the bellyache. But what-," his hand reached out familiarly and a finger tapped her knee—"but what about when he croaks? Y'thought SOMEBODY'S STENOG—Maybe the Golden Calf Is Only Gilded if he slipped his cable, went out with the tide, he fetched clear of our hooks?" Burke's eyes were near, brimming with an ugly delight. "Why, Lord, girl, there's where we hit him hardest. 'Tain't his body then, It's his everlasting soul!

The withered blankness of Burke's own soul revealed itself in the long suppressed cackle of mirth.

For heathen belief, indeed, offered one more thumbscrew ready to the use of the exploiter. The Tannaman, however, ferocious to the stranger, loves his own; cares as tenderly as he knows for the sick and the aged; makes of his children's whims almost a command. And herein the diabolical Burke saw a chance to -wring tribute both from the dving and from those who mourn.

There have been terrible things in our own interpretation of Christianity, but nowhere such a moment of torture as pagan Tanna heldand still holds-at the hour of death for the loved ones left behind.

In the old Tannan belief, when the last fluttering breath dies upon the blue lips, the soul is liberated and straightway wings out across the sea toward the westerly skyline. And there, where sea and cloud meet, it pauses to await its fate. If fortune choose, that soul shall float on into Umatmas, a Tannan heaven; a land of sunshine and eternal joy. Or, if fortune fail, the soul shall be crushed out, between two boulders. instantly and forever.

And here is the awful thing: whether that soul shall be obliterated. or shall pass on into the sunshine of everlasting life, rests with the near and dear. And neither prayer nor votive offering nor loving sacrifice shall aid. It is the world's most biting gamble. They must stake the hereafter upon their luck in a throw of dice!

Does a dear baby lie there before the mother, dead? Its little brown zody upon the mat is not yet cold. But the cry of the mourners fills the air. The breath of life is gone, the spirit flown. Then comes one. the father, and presses into the mother's fingers the pebbles with which she must throw for the baby's soul.

At the portals of Umatmas, out under the western sky, the baby waits. The mother, as her palm feels the cold stones, sees the baby' hands outstretched in supplication, hears the little voice in its appeal. And then, half swooning, frantic, she casts the pebbles from her. the mats they scatter, roll; come at last to a dread pause. Eternal life:

eternal nothingness! Small wonder, then, that Burke should exult at refixing upon Tanna in all its former bitter hold this horror of the pagan night. For in such an hour of hideous alternative what would a mother not pay to make her baby safe? At first Ponape Burke could not get over the idea he had presented his vision inadequately. He was sure Palmyra's apathy had its being in some doubt that the plan was practical.

For perhaps an hour he had been at the wheel, driving the schooner under full canvas, studying the girl's face covertly. Then his own features lighted with inspiration. He yelled for a brown seaman to take the helm, hurried across to her.

"Savvy now too much," he grinned. There was in his eyes a shrewdness, seemingly precocious because so questionably adult. "Y' think the traders'll fight us, them having unquestionably adult. t'pay for their copra, while we gets ours free?" He dismissed the possibility with a grimance, a shrug. "Part o' the group's too blame wild for many trading stations. Mostly boat work. And, besides, Tanna's knee deep in cocoanuts, but nobody's been able t'make the dam' kanakas cut 'em into copra. Us, though—," he tittered enjoyingly. "We'll have 'em busy as bees making honey—our honey!"

Again it occurred to him she felt the government would interfere.
"Why, Palm, girl," he cried, "I reckon a feller can come nearer doing what he pleases in the New Hebrides than about anywhere on earth." The group was perhaps the most backward in the Pacific. This was due, not so much to its savage people, as to that curse in govern-ments, a joint control. Great Britain would not step out of a chain so near Australia, nor France one covering her New Caledonia, with its nickel mines. Hence the condominium, under which, as is always the case, there was suspicion, jealousy; divided authority, responsibility. Natives and white adventurers played one power against the other; did, as to parts of the group at least, almost as they chose. Blackbirding, gin, gun running. Each power, desiring popular adherence, accused the other of remitting fines, winking at flagrant transgressions by its partisans. "We'll go it French," explained Ponape Burke. "Australia being so close, France has the harder time keeping up a gang. She ought t'pay high for a couple o' live frogs like what we'll be, with the kanaka voice

(At the Howard.) The Paramount picture "Tongues of Flame" starring Thomas Meighan was the feature at the Howard yesterday, and will be the attraction all week. "Tongues of Flame," is the last novel by the late Peter Clark Macfarlane. It's a full size thriller with the star in his finest role in months. The picture more than proves that Meighan's name outside of any theater is a guarantee of proves that Meighan's name outside of any theater is a guarantee of money's-worth entertainment within. "The Garden of Weeds," which stars Betty Compson, is a finished product. There is no dragging or any dull moment that might have been omitted. (At the Metropolitan.)

Yesterday afternoon I sat in the Metropolitan theater and watched the screening of the new film classic, "Abraham Lincoln."

The plot of the picture was simply the life-story of that wonderful man who guided the destinies of these United States during their greatest crisis—the civil war. I can conceive of no greater theme for an intensely dramatic, smashing superproduction than the life of Lincoln, who is at once one of the most tragic and sublime characters the world has ever

CAPTURE HONORS AT THE FORSYTH

Of all the acts at Keith's Forsyth theater Monday night the audience seemed to like best the one called "Non-Skid Kidders." It was pre-"Non-Skid Kidders." It was pre-sented by "Keer & Ensign." And then Sented by Keer & Elisigh. And then Neil McKinley, the head-liner, is no slouch when it comes to creating a ripple of laughter in an audience.

The whole bill was good. Take a tip and drop in on Martin L. Semon's show—if you would be entertained. Anyhow, people liked "Keer and En-m" so much because of that funny king musical instrument upon which Keer performed with such finesse. It looked like a cross between a loud-speaker and a fiddle, and could really sound a note. Both Mr. Keer really sound a note. Both Mr. Keer and Miss Ensign drag a mean bow, and in fact, there's a lot of violin playing during the whole act that will please everyone just as much as it did the carry!

HOW REALTY GROWS.

The recent offer of $3,000,000, and later $3,500,000, which the state of Georgia has received for property owned by it in the city of Chattanooga shows in a very striking way how real estate located in a prosperous and growing community enhances in value.

When the state of Georgia found itself in need of ample room for terminals for the railroad which it proposed to build from its southern terminus to the Tennessee river, she acquired the amount of land now under consideration for a modest investment. Chattanooga was then a small river town which has since grown into one of the south's most prosperous cities. It has overflowed its former boundaries and enveloped Georgia's railroad property and this property, which was purchased for a comparatively small outlay and which can now be sold for a sum which will bring at 5 per cent an annual income of $175,-000, is a most effective object lesson in the possibilities of real estate favorably located and nurtured through the passing of years.

The possibilities for growth in real estate values may be found in any substantial community where business conditions are favorable and there is reasonable promise of expansion.

Few towns have ever gone backward in the south. Some have moved more slowly than others and some of them, like Atlanta, have grown steadily year after year. Conditions are much more fixed and certain now in the south than they were 75 years ago. Then there were few prosperous towns and comparatively no cities. No one could then tell where the large cities would grow. The investor now seeking promising realty investments can find them in many towns and cities and one of the best places in the entire south is right here in Atlanta.

Read today's opportunities in the real estate columns.

Few Senators Understand Muscle Shoals Question In All Its Varied Phases

Senator Ladd, Advocate

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, December 15.—The disposition of Muscle Shoals continues, after seven days more or less steadily devoted to it, to have right of way in the senate debate. It is a worthy debate, and by the end of it doubtless all the senators will have enough information to "ive intelligent gridence to their settion."

Sion a chemist and teacher.

Ladd, at least, has what many others do not have, namely, a clear side as to what Muscle Shoals should be devoted to. Not all may agree with that as the best purpose, but Senator Ladd has a clear idea of what he wants and how to attain it.

'DR. CAT'S-ELBOW' IS ENGLISH NAME OF BERLIN DOCTOR

Berlin, December 15 .- Believe it or not, there is a man in Berlin named Dr. Cat's-Elbow. That isn't the way he spelis it but that is what his name means in English. In German, this individual is Dr stage where only some wonder-worker of the Ford type can give any promise of making it successful. Senator Ladd says that what is needed at Muscle Shouls is experiment. He says that the whole world of industrial chemistry is an uncharted field with an inevitable succession of miscelesses and great expense.

Katzenellenbogen. Dr. Cat's-Elbow has other troua Dutch officer had Dr. Cat's-Elbow arrested for swindling. She claims to have borne him a child.

Senator Norris and those who agree with him, say, on the other hand, that the farmer has been deceived and sumption that the Henry Ford offer is water over the dam, and that Ford's water over the dam, and that Ford's marity for calving the farmers in Henry Ford's calvindad and the farmers in Henry Ford's calvindad and the farmers in Henry Ford's calvindad and the farmer in Henry Ford's c ond, they point out that nitrogen, while indispensable for the manufac-ture of fertilizer, nevertheless is only a 2 per cent element of most fertilizers and not more than a 10 per cent element in any kind of fertilizer.

This group says that the thing to do with Muscle Shoals is to treat it simply as what it now is a water-power institution. If the Underwood bill, on which the present debate is. should be voted down, the Norris bill continued government ownership and operation will then be taken up for consideration. The best judges say there is still a majority in favor of the Underwood bill, although it is cor-ceded that in the course of the debate it has lost some of its support.

it has lost some of its support.

Let no one suppose that what is here said does more than touch one aspect. In the debate so far, some hundreds of thousands of words, enough to make a large book, have been uttered. The debate will continue for at least two days and possibly a week. Many of the objections to the Underwood bill rest on the fact that under it Muscle Shoals is released from the limitations that surround all other water-power grants made by all other water-power grants made by

Big Damage Suit Sets New Record to reach every member before night For Long Trial

Dedham. Mass., December 15.—A $15,000,000 damage suit which set a new-record in American court cases for length of trial was given to a jury today. The case has occupied 184 actual court days since opened in Norfolk superior court November in Norto 5, 1923.

The suit was brought by Georg. F. Villett to recover from Robert F. Herrick and a group of Boston bank-ers' sums claimed to have been lost by the plaintiff through an alleged conspiracy in which he was deprived of control of the American Felt and the Daniel Green Felt Shoe companies. Testimony, arguments and charges in the case have amounted to approximately 4,000,000 words, which it has been estimated would fill 30 volumes of 350 pages each. The charge to the jury occupied 240 closely typewritten pages. During the trial 45 witnesses took the stand.
Of the 12 jurors impanelled for the trial at its beginning only 11 heard the charge. The missing jurer suf-fered a nervous collapse in the course of the trial and was forced to quit the box. The case is believed to be the only one on record whe a special law was enacted to raise jury salaries to compensate the jurors for the proloced neglect of their busiess affairs.
